Introduction:

In the predawn hours of September 17, 1938, at the Kommunarka firing range near Moscow, a slight, bookish-looking man was marched out of his cell.

His name was Nikolai. He was an economist. And as he faced the firing squad, he was informed that his death had been personally ordered by the Soviet Union's supreme leader, Josef Stalin.

Nikolai's crime: The discovery of a cyclical pattern in global economies that had accurately predicted the rise and fall of empires and nations for centuries.

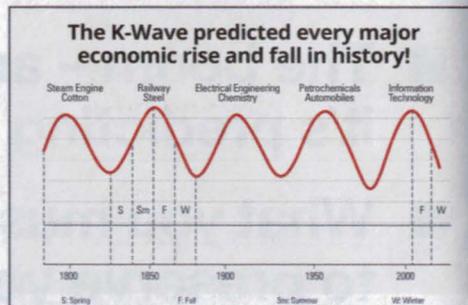

The problem was, his chart pattern also predicted the death of the Soviet Union. And in 1930s Russia, that was enough to get you killed.

Today, this obscure economist's name lives on as the father of the most accurate economic forecasting tool known to science.

It flawlessly predicted America's post-war boom in the 1950s ... the stagflation of the 1970s ... the Dot-Com crash of 2000 ... and even the housing bust of 2008.

Now, this remarkable chart has issued its gravest warning ever: A global economic collapse of Biblical proportions has begun.

And it reveals how you can use this privileged information to help multiply your money many times over — with the kinds of investments that made one investor $2 billion richer during the housing bust.

Meet Mike Burnick:

Accurately predicting every major turn in the investment markets since 1987

My name is Mike Burnick. I am a senior analyst at Weiss Research, an independent financial research firm.

Every day, nearly one million people in over 90 countries around the world receive our financial publications.

For more than 45 years, we've provided impartial analysis on the economy, the markets, and investment opportunities. We help investors make money in bear, bull, or stagnant markets.

I am also editor of Real Wealth Report, where my team and I have one focus: To warn our members of financial dangers and help them protect their hard-earned money.

You might have seen our economic predictions on CNBC, CNN, and NBC News — or in the New York Times or Wall Street Journal. The media turns to us because our predictions often fly in the face of what other market analysts say.

In 2001, our founder, Larry Edelson, called the beginning of the great gold bull market. The yellow metal soared from $250 to over $1,900 per ounce. Then, in September 2011 we said gold prices would plunge. And they did, right on cue.

We also predicted the housing crisis ... saying it would take down the stock market and the U.S. economy with it. It gives me no pleasure to say we were right.

(please turn)

In March 2009, we announced the worst was over, and it was time to buy stocks again. Over the next eight years, the S&P soared 252%. Now, we're on record saying the Dow will rise to 32,000 before another crash. And this one will make 2008-2009 seem like a walk in the park.

In 2014, we announced the bear market in the dollar was ending. The greenback then rose against virtually all other currencies, just as we predicted.

Real Wealth Report is also known for accurately predicting the collapse in oil and grain market prices in 2014 and early 2015 — two events that took many professional commodity traders by surprise.

I tell you this, not to brag, but to demonstrate the accuracy of this little-known forecasting tool — the chart pattern that guides all Real Wealth Report recommendations.

This pattern is now warning of a major economic crisis on the horizon. But it's also providing an opportunity to build wealth — for anyone willing to listen.

Read on to see how you can keep your wealth intact and growing, no matter what happens.

Chapter I:

Why Stalin murdered Nicolai Kondratieff

Nicolai Kondratieff was killed because of a book; a book he, himself had written: "The Long Waves in Economic Life."

The book — really just a pamphlet — was only 23 pages long. But it contained an idea so revolutionary. So incendiary. So threatening to the Soviet Union that he was executed for it ...

Kondratieff predicted communism would fail and be replaced by capitalism.

It wasn't an opinion, said Kondratieff, it was a certainty. Because human economies move in waves. And when you stop and think about it, that should come as no surprise.

Science has taught us, after all, that everything in the universe moves in waves. Sound and light move in waves. Electromagnetic waves are what let us listen to music on the radio and watch shows on television.

Is it any wonder human economies move in the same way?

Kondratieff proved that economies act just like waves in the physical world. What's more, economic waves come in cycles that make changes in the economy easy to predict. As easy as the changing of the seasons.

(please turn)

What Kondratieff called “The Long Wave” — which was later named “The K Wave” in his honor — shows the changing cycles of private and public influence in the economy.

During the private cycle, free enterprise leads to increasing growth and prosperity. Think of the “Roaring Twenties,” for example.

Eventually, the wave reaches a crest and begins to collapse in on itself. This collapse is triggered by a stock market crash, a housing bust, or a run on the banks.

This is what happened in the 1930s. At this point, the government intervenes in the economy. They may print more money. Manipulate interest rates. Or increase government jobs, welfare, and handouts.

For a while, everything seems to work fine. But this phase, too, leads to a crash. Because even governments must obey the laws of economics. And the most basic law is this:

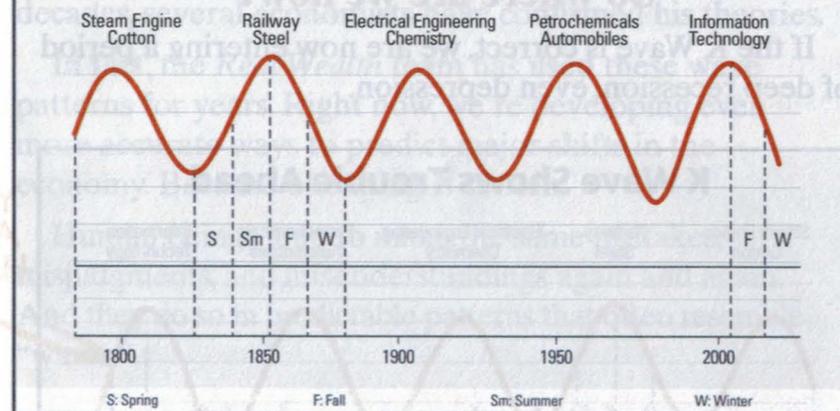

You can't keep spending money you don't have!

This is how Kondratieff knew that Soviet Union communism would be replaced by capitalism. He predicted it sixty-one years before it happened.

According to Kondratieff, the K Wave has a frequency of 47 to 64 years. And if you look back through history, you'll see how accurate the K Wave is.

From crest to crest, you can see the dawn of the industrial revolution. The golden age of railroads and steel. The onset of electrical and chemical engineering. The age of the automobile and oil. And, most recently, the information age which peaked with the rise of Internet stocks in 2000.

The K-Wave predicted every major economic rise and fall in history!

But you can also see the Panic of 1819. The “Long Depression” of 1873. The “Great Depression” that began in 1929. The stock market crash of 1973, when the market lost 46% of its value, ushering in a period of “stagflation”.

Take a closer look at one wave and you'll notice a pattern that's common to all of them. Each wave shows a “seasonal” pattern. Kondratieff said these patterns resemble the seasons of the year.

In the SPRING phase, new technology creates a period of innovation and wealth creation.

In the SUMMER, there is a growing mood of affluence in society. But there's also growing tension between the “haves” and “have-nots.”

In the FALL, the financial markets reach their peak. But serious trouble is just around the corner.

(please turn)

Finally, the WINTER stage arrives. Now the economy faces severe recession and eventually depression.

So where are we now?

If the K Wave is correct, we are now entering a period of deep recession, even depression.

You
Are Here

This could last as long as 23 years and include seismic shifts in the fabric of society. You've already seen one of those seismic shifts take place with the upset election of Donald Trump.

But what I'm talking about here is much bigger than one man or one election. I'm talking about a rippling effect that will roll through the entire globe and leave utter destruction in its wake ...

Wiping some investors out of their lifesavings ...
While making others rich beyond their wildest dreams.

Of course, you could write this off as the hare-brained theory of one mad Russian scientist. But as we'll see in a moment, Nikolai Kondratieff was not alone. Over the decades, several economists have confirmed his theories.

In fact, the Real Wealth team has used these wave patterns for years. Right now, we're developing even more accurate ways to predict major shifts in the economy. Because one thing is certain:

Human beings tend to make the same mistakes, misjudgments, and misunderstandings again and again. And they do so in predictable patterns that often resemble "waves."

Mark my words: A tidal wave is headed our way.

Your chances of being struck by the crisis predicted by Kondratieff and others you'll meet in a moment are 100%.

Whether you are totally wiped out — or whether you ride the "crest" of this wave to a level of wealth you never dreamed possible — depends entirely on what you decide to do today.

Because if you keep reading for the next few minutes, I'll not only show you what you must do immediately to insulate your wealth ...

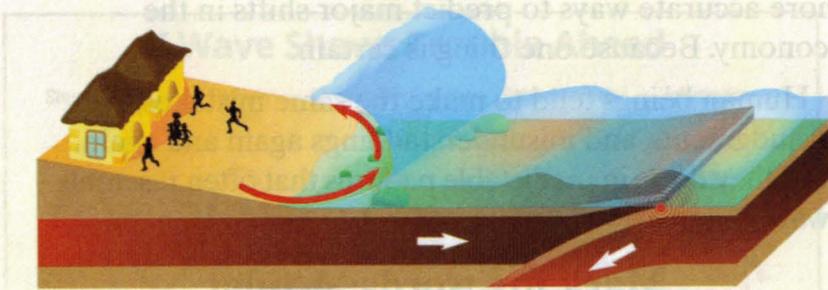

... I'll also reveal some stocks that could multiply your money by 300% ... 400% ... even 500% if you "surf" the K Wave safely into shore.

(please turn)

Economic tidal waves act just like Tsunamis

According to M.I.T. research, tidal waves in the economy work a lot like those in nature.

Deep beneath the ocean floor, two tectonic plates rub against each other to create a fissure or fault line. As the pressure builds up over the centuries, a rupture occurs.

It's an earthquake. But it's happening underwater. So nobody can see it or hear it. Until it's too late. The earthquake displaces massive amounts of water, which move outward in waves at speeds of up to 500 miles an hour.

When the first wave hits the shore, it causes utter devastation. According to the National Geographic, the enormous energy of a tsunami can lift giant boulders, flip vehicles and demolish houses."

But from a financial standpoint, the K Wave will be even worse:

- Millions more could see their lifesavings wiped out in an instant.
- Businesses, large and small, could close their doors.
- Even the bare necessities of life — food, water, clothing — might become scarce.

This financial devastation will radiate outward from its source at an alarming speed until every civilized human being on the planet is affected. But where is the fault line in the global economy?

Kondratieff was not alone

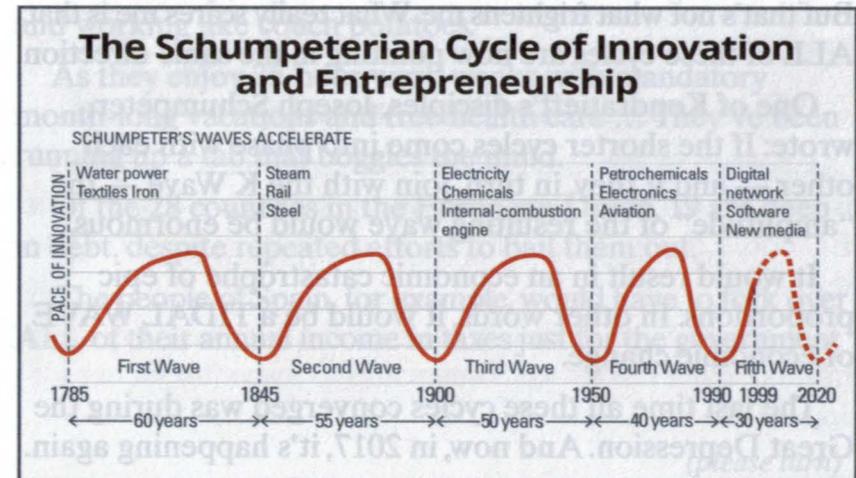

The 18-year investment cycle described by Simon Kuznets:

Predicts "panic bottoms" in the market.

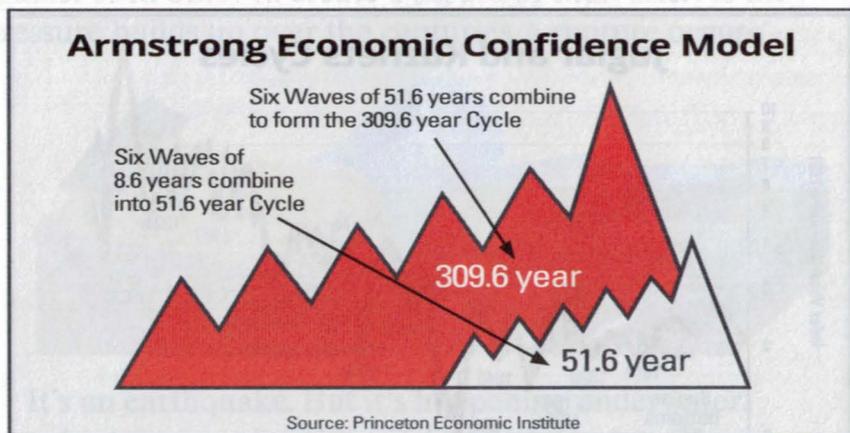

The 50-year "Cycle of Innovation" developed by Joseph Schumpeter:

Predicts periods of economic and political upheaval.

The 8.6-year “Economic Confidence Model” of Martin Armstrong:

He was recently profiled in The New Yorker magazine. The Model predicts panics every 8.6 years, or 3,141 days.

Armstrong’s cycle predicts that a major financial panic takes place every 8.6 years, or 3,141 days. And if history repeats itself in cycles, you may wonder what was happening 3,141 days ago. Answer?

We were in the middle of the stock market crash of 2008-09. But that’s not what frightens me. What really scares me is that ALL of these cycles are now pointing in the same direction.

One of Kondratieff’s disciples, Joseph Schumpeter, wrote: If the shorter cycles come into phase with each other — and if they, in turn, join with the K Wave — the “amplitude” of the resulting wave would be enormous.

It would result in an economic catastrophe of epic proportions. In other words, it would be a TIDAL WAVE of economic change.

The last time all these cycles converged was during the Great Depression. And now, in 2017, it’s happening again.

Chapter II: Fault Lines in the Global Economy: How This Disaster Will Unfold

What will the financial earthquake be that triggers this economic tsunami?

The answer should come as no surprise to you. It is, after all, where most of the world’s worst human disasters have taken place over the last 2,000 years.

Of course, I’m talking about Europe.

Ever since the European Union was formed in 1979, the entire continent has been drowning in a sea of debt. For more than 40 years, Europeans have been living like kings and working like couch potatoes.

As they enjoy 35-hour work weeks with mandatory month-long vacations and free health care ... They’ve been running up a tab that boggles the mind.

Of the 28 countries in the European Union, 19 are deep in debt, despite repeated efforts to bail them out.

The people of Spain, for example, would have to fork over ALL of their annual income in taxes just for the government to break even. But many countries actually owe MORE than their people and businesses can produce each year.

(please turn)

Greece takes the cake with 79% more money going out every year than every man, woman and child in Greece can earn. Of course, some economists say it doesn't matter. But history has shown this isn't true.

Ever since Roman emperors began debasing their coins, we've known there's always a price to pay. There's always a judgment day.

For Europe the judgement day is here

Everything that has held the EU together for 40 years is starting to crack. According to the New York Times, "the EU could dissipate faster than even its detractors could've dreamed."

The British have already realized the EU was a big mistake from the get-go. They voted to leave the EU in June 2016.

Meanwhile countries like France and Germany have seen the rise of politicians who promise to preserve the purity of their populations. Watching the news out of Europe nowadays is like watching a black-and-white newsreel from the 1930s.

Like Germany in the 1930s, the highlight of that newsreel could be the collapse of the European currency. Back then, German marks were more useful in the fireplace as kindling than at the grocery store to buy food.

Could it happen again? In fact, it's already happening. And according to the K Wave, it's happening right on schedule.

The euro continues to drop in value. At its peak in 2007, one euro was worth $1.59. As of May of 2016, it was worth just $1.13. That's a drop of 29% in less than ten years.

When it becomes worth less than a dollar, the euro could go into free fall. My prediction?

The EU will break apart within a matter of months, or even weeks, from now. And when it does, the euro will collapse. This is the "economic earthquake" that will send shockwaves throughout the global economy. And the first place the tsunami will hit is Japan.

Here's why Japan will be the next to fall

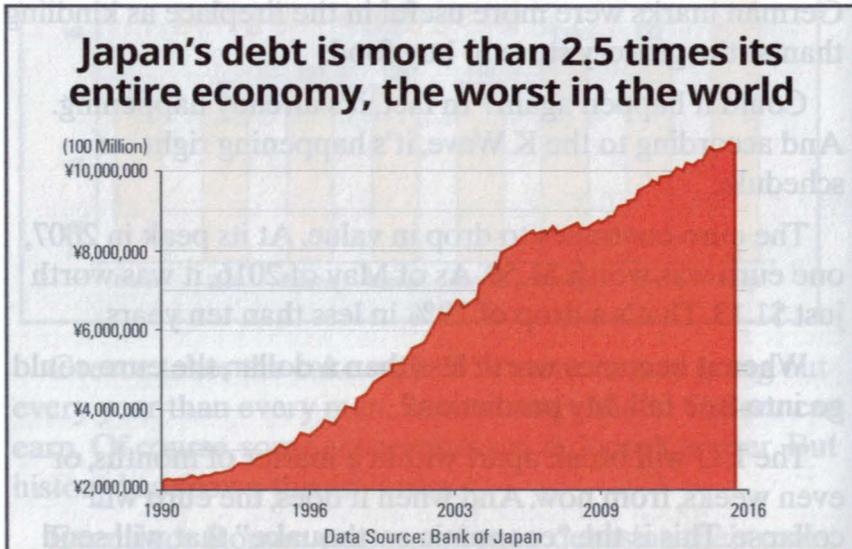

Why Japan? Because after the United States and China, Europe is Japan's biggest trading partner.

When Japan sends cars, cameras, and computers to Europe, they expect to get paid for them. If they don't get paid — or if they get paid in worthless euros — the fault lines in Japan's own economy will crack wide open.

(please turn)

Because even though Japan seems like a rich country, it's actually a house of cards waiting to fall down, for two reasons:

First, because the national debt in Japan is even WORSE than any country in Europe, including Greece. Japan has the biggest deficit in the world — more than one quadrillion yen.

That's more than two and a half times the entire Japanese economy. This makes the Greeks look downright frugal by comparison. What's more, the Japanese keep adding to their debt at a rate of 96 trillion a year.

So why haven't you seen riots in the streets of Tokyo like you did in Athens?

Because the Japanese still have a strong manufacturing base and a healthy trade balance. As long as Europe keeps buying Hondas and Sony's, the Japanese can keep their Ponzi scheme going.

But Japan has a second, even bigger problem: The bigger problem is the Japanese people aren't stupid.

They know their debt is not sustainable. They know their pension plans and social security checks are at risk. So they've been hoarding money at an alarming rate and refusing to spend it.

As a result, consumer prices are dropping like a rock. When the Japanese consumer knows the price of a car will be LOWER next year than it is today, what does he do?

He saves his money and waits until next year, of course. This kind of deflationary cycle is what turns a recession into a depression.

The Japanese have suffered four recessions in a row since 2008. For all intents and purposes, Japan is now in a depression. This makes it even LESS likely they'll ever be able to get out of debt.

The bottom line?

When the euro falls, however, it will take the yen with it. And the Japanese economy — the third largest in the world — will come tumbling down. When the K Wave hits Tokyo, the result will be total devastation.

Welcome to the only country in worse shape than Japan!

But there's one country in the world that's in even worse shape than Japan. Even worse than the European Union. Even worse than Greece. Can you guess where it is?

Home sweet home! The United States will be the last place the tsunami hits. But because it's the world's biggest economy, it will suffer the most.

(please turn)

America also has the world's worst debt, although politicians don't like to talk about it. They'll tell you it's "only" $19 trillion dollars.

But when you add all of the money our government owes to veterans ... Baby Boomer retirees ... Medicare and Medicaid recipients ... All the things Washington calls "unfunded liabilities" ...

Suddenly our debt is more like $127 trillion dollars. This makes it worse than Greece. Worse than Japan. Worse than any other country in the world.

Soon, every baby born in the United States will get a slap on the butt from the doctor ... And a bill from Uncle Sam for $1.1 million dollars.

Again, some economists say this is nothing to worry about. We've been running a deficit ever since the Revolutionary War, they say, and we're still here. It's no different than carrying a long mortgage.

But when you can't afford to make payments on your mortgage, that's when they kick you out on the street. This is exactly what will happen to the United States in a few short years.

And there are only three things the Fed can do about it:

The Fed has only three big guns in their arsenal, and they've already fired all of them, with no impact.

First, they tried lowering interest rates. Since 2007, the Fed Funds rate has dropped from 5.5% to just 0.26%. That's a 95% reduction, but it didn't help.

Second, they tried pumping cash into the banking system in exchange for bonds and securities. Now, the Fed's balance sheet is at $4.5 trillion and they've got nothing to show for it but a pile of their own lousy bonds.

Finally, they tried to stimulate inflation. But last year, the CPI grew by only 0.7% and producer prices actually fell by one percent — ushering in a new era of deflation.

That's something we haven't seen in the United States since ... you guessed it, the 1930s.

Frankly, there's only one kind of ammunition the government has left to fight this sovereign debt crisis: Bullets! And don't think for a moment they won't use them.

Here's how the economic crisis will unravel

The crisis will start in the global bond markets as investors start dumping U.S. Treasury bills at any price. Washington will respond by raising interest rates.

But no matter how high the rates go, investors will avoid U.S. bonds like a five-day-old fish. As interest rates rise, America's retirees will watch the bond prices in their portfolios take a nosedive.

The investments that millions of retirees depend on for income — including private pensions and “guaranteed” annuities — will vanish overnight.

With no reserves on hand and nobody left to lend it money, the government will have no choice but to start laying off its 2.7 million federal employees.

Next they'll stop sending out Social Security checks. Money for Medicare and Medicaid will stop.

No more food stamps. Welfare checks. Or disability payments for veterans.

Banks and businesses will shut their doors. Soon there will be no cash left in the ATM machines ...

No gas at the service stations ... No food on the grocery shelves.

That's when the American people will take to the streets. Some in peaceful protest, yes. But millions more will take to the streets in hunger, anger and fear.

When this happens, don't count on the government to help you! The police, the National Guard and the army will be busy patrolling the streets in tanks warning people to stay inside or risk getting shot.

And there's nothing more dangerous than a government fighting for its own survival. Like a wounded animal, it will do whatever it can to stay in power. Even if it means taking away your freedom and stealing your money.

So how can you protect yourself?

(please turn)

Chapter III:

How This Chart Pattern Can Help You Protect and Grow Your Money

Some people are planning to go to a little cabin in the woods. They've stocked it with food, guns, and ammunition. They call it a “bolt hole.”

You know what? It's not such a bad idea! But it's not for everyone. It's not for me, that's for sure. So, I've got a better way to protect myself. And you do, too.

The answer is to get rich. Rich enough to weather the storm and keep your assets out of danger. And guess what? The K Wave itself will give you the perfect way to do that. How?

By “surfing” the K Wave safely into shore. Because after Europe and Japan collapse, the K Wave will reach a “crest” before it hits the United States.

That crest is called “flight capital.” You see, investment capital always flows in one direction: It flows AWAY from danger and TOWARDS safety and growth.

As Europe and Japan collapse, rich people in those countries will look for somewhere to put their money where it will be safe and have a chance to grow. But where? To answer that question, let me take you back in history ...

(please turn)

What would you do if you were in “Pierre’s” shoes?

Suppose, for example, your name is “Pierre Dubois” and you live in Paris.

For 30 years you’ve owned a restaurant on the Left Bank and now you have 500,000 euros socked away for your retirement.

But the French government has been talking about negative interest rates to stimulate their failing economy.

Which means that for every year you keep your money “safely” in the bank at negative 0.05%, you’ll lose 2,500 euros!

You’ve thought about smuggling the cash out of the country.

But the French police now have “cash-sniffing” dogs at the borders to stop you from doing that.

These dogs don’t sniff out drugs, they sniff out cash!

What you really need is someplace to invest your money. Someplace safe and secure. Someplace where it will grow enough to offset your high French taxes.

Here’s what happened the last time the K Wave hit

Let’s go back to the last time the K Wave hit the global economy with the kind of force that’s coming in 2018. I’m talking about 1932 — the depth of the Great Depression.

This is the great untold story of the depression in America, the part that’s never taught in schools. Everybody knows about the crash of 1929 ... and the stockbrokers jumping out of the windows on Wall Street.

But nobody remembers the period between 1932 and 1937 was one of the greatest bull markets in history. During this time the Dow Jones Industrial Average rose by 372%!

During the depths of the Depression, the Dow rose 372%!

(please turn)

That's enough to turn $10,000 into $47,200 in just five years. That's the same as $780,543 today. So how did this happen?

In 1932, Europe was in even worse shape than the United States. Germany was bankrupt. France, Italy, and even England were facing dire financial problems of their own.

Yet there were still lots of rich people in Europe. Many were sitting on family fortunes dating back hundreds of years. They needed to find a place to stash their money where it would be secure and have a chance to grow.

Our great blue-chip companies like General Motors and General Electric were strong and growing in spite of the Great Depression.

So the Dow Jones soared. And some people got crazy rich as a result. They knew that when you have a struggling economy, plus shaky governments throughout the world ... it triggers a TIDAL WAVE OF CAPITAL flowing out of government bonds and into stocks.

That's why the Dow Jones rallied from a low of 40.52 in July of 1932 to a high of 195.2 in March of 1937. That's a gain of 372% during the worst depression in history!

Flash forward 85 years — or two K Wave cycles — and you're watching the same thing happen again.

The K Wave tsunami will wipe out the European Union in a matter of months (possibly weeks) from now. Then the tidal wave will crash into Japan within a year. At that point, millions of wealthy Europeans and Japanese will be searching the globe for someplace safe to stash their money.

Someplace safe and secure. Someplace where it will be enough to offset your high French taxes.

And there's only one place the money can go ...

The so-called BRIC countries — Brazil, Russia, India and China — offer a chance of growth ... but no safety or security.

Would you trust your lifesavings to Vladimir Putin or the brutal dictators in Beijing? In Brazil, people are rioting in the streets. In India, people are still starving in the streets.

No, there's only one place it can go. The last harbor of safety and growth in the world: The United States of America. But where exactly?

It certainly won't go into U.S. Treasury bonds because there's no return there. And with $127 trillion dollars in debt, there isn't much safety either.

Some of it will go into gold, of course. But there isn't enough gold in the world to accept this massive influx of money.

Some of it will go into high-end American real estate. High-rise condos like these in New York are the "bolt-holes" of rich Europeans and Asians.

(please turn)

You've probably read about the skyscrapers in New York filled with $100 million condos. These apartments are the "bolt holes" of frightened Europeans, Japanese, and other Asian billionaires.

But the problem is, real estate isn't liquid. If you need to get your $100 million out of your condo fast, how quickly can you sell it?

No, there's only one place in the world that has the liquidity, the safety, and the return that Japanese and European investors want: Wall Street.

That's why the K Wave will reach a "crest" in the stock market before it hits the American economy.

As the K Wave crests, I predict the Dow Jones will nearly double in value, reaching at least 31,000 in 2020. In fact, the Dow could go much, much higher. Why?

Multinational corporations have cash to protect, too!

We're not just talking about individual European and Japanese investors here. We're also talking about multinational corporations, both foreign and domestic.

Apple alone has more than $147 billion on its books right now, most of it parked in U.S. Treasury bonds. That's more cash than even the U.S. Government itself keeps on hand! As those bonds get more and more risky — and yield less and less income — the bean counters at Apple will be looking for somewhere else to put it.

And the first place they'll look will be Wall Street. Nor is Apple alone ...

Microsoft is sitting on $80 billion in cash and cash equivalents... Google has $58 billion ... Verizon $57 billion ... Johnson & Johnson ... General Electric ... Pfizer ... and dozens of others are in the same cash-rich quandary.

There's only one place this money can go: The New York Stock Exchange. If you're over the age of 50, this is likely to be the last great bull market of your lifetime. Even if you're under the age of 50, it could be the fastest run-up in stocks you'll see as long as you live.

But here's the best part: Because you've read this report, you will be one of the few people who understands what's going on!

While others sit on the sidelines muttering, "Why is the stock market going up when the global economy is tanking?" YOU will know exactly what's happening and why.

The only question is: Will you take advantage of it? When the Dow hits 31,000 by the year 2020, will you kick yourself and say, "Gee, I guess Mike was right. I sure wish I'd listened to him."

Or will you be popping the cork on a bottle of champagne and telling the skipper of your yacht to set sail for your private island in the Caribbean?

The choice is yours. But you've got to make that choice today. Because the window of opportunity is small and it will slam shut before you know it.

Where will YOU be when the K Wave crashes?

When the K Wave crashes into the American economy ... you'll either be one of the lucky few who are rich and secure ... or one of the millions who are hungry, desperate, and afraid.

Now you might be tempted to say, "Dow 31,000 sounds pretty good to me, Mike, I'll just hold onto my U.S. stocks and watch them double in value."

But sitting tight is the worst thing you could do. Here's why ...

First, you can't expect EVERY part of your portfolio to rise in lockstep with the Dow. If you have a diversified portfolio the K-Wave will cause many of your stocks and bonds to crash even while the Dow is going up.

If you're holding Treasury bills, municipal bonds, high-yield corporate paper, small-cap stocks, or international equities, for example, you're going to take such a beating that it won't matter if the Dow goes to 31,000 ...

Second, you need to do more than just double your portfolio in order to protect yourself. That's why I'm going to tell you in the next few minutes how you could make 300% ... 400% ... even 500% on your investments in a short amount of time. Because you're going need that kind of growth to stay safe after the crash.

The third reason you can't sit tight is because the K Wave will act just like a real tsunami. In other words, the tide will go out just before the wave comes in — like a powerful undertow.

My computer models say the Dow could pull all the way back to 13,900 before it starts to rise again. But in the next few minutes, I'll tell you how to protect yourself from this undertow and position your portfolio for the crest that's right behind it.

So what should you do?

Chapter IV:

Free Report: Five Steps You Must Take NOW!

Let me tell you what I'm doing to grow my own portfolio and protect my family from what's ahead.

I've written it all down in a research report called "THE STOCK

MARKET TSUNAMI:

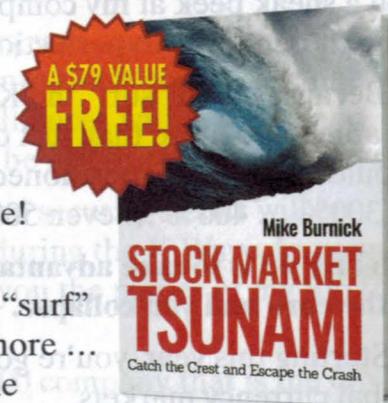

Catch the Crest and Escape the Crash." In a few moments, I'll tell you how you can get your copy — free!

This report includes Five Steps you can take NOW to "surf" the crest of the K Wave to shore ... and protect yourself from the crash that will follow.

STEP #1 is to get out of your most vulnerable investments immediately.

If I told you, for example, that a real tidal wave was headed your way in the next few weeks, wouldn't you sell your beach house now? At the very least, wouldn't you remove any valuables and furniture?

(please turn)

Well, that's exactly what I want you to do with your portfolio. In your FREE REPORT, I'm going to tell you exactly which investments you should sell for cash now. Because you're going to need that cash for Step #2 ...

STEP #2 is to buy the safe blue-chip stocks I recommend when the undertow puts them on sale.

As I said a moment ago, there's going to be a powerful undertow before the K Wave hits Wall Street. The good news is that when the tide is low, you'll be able to pick up some great American stocks at bargain prices.

In your FREE REPORT, I'll tell you which blue chips to sell as the K Wave crest begins to form. Plus, I'll give you a sneak peek at my computer models to help you time those moves to perfection.

Because if you "surf" the K Wave perfectly, you should be able to do more than just double your money. You should be perfectly positioned to multiply your money by 300% ... 400% ... even 500%.

STEP #3 is to take advantage of a stronger U.S. Dollar as the euro and yen collapse.

Starting this year, you're going to see chaos in the global currency markets.

Currencies around the world will fluctuate like crazy. But the good old American greenback will keep getting stronger as the world stashes their cash in dollars.

You don't have to be a currency speculator to make money on this. In your FREE REPORT, I'll show you some easy ways to take advantage of a stronger dollar.

STEP #4 is to get ready for World War III.

When the EU collapses, national borders will go up again. The finger pointing will start. The fascist political parties will take power. Before you know it, Europeans will do what they've always done best: Kill each other.

When the Japanese economy collapses, meanwhile, don't expect China to send them a sympathy card. Those two countries have hated each other for centuries. And tensions are high already.

No matter what happens, you can count on this: America will be dragged into these conflicts in one way or another. Our military alliances with Europe and Japan are so strong it will be impossible to stay out of it.

Which is why defense and security stocks will be among those to rise most during the K Wave. In your FREE REPORT, I'll give you the names of my top three U.S. Defense stocks.

Including the Fortune 500 company that is the ONLY firm that builds and maintains nuclear-powered ships for the U.S. Navy. This is a stock that could easily turn every $10,000 you invest into $30,000 when the you-know-what hits the fan.

STEP #5 is to wait until gold goes on sale, then back up the truck!

When the K Wave crashes into America, the most valuable asset in the world to own will be gold. BUT MAKE NO MOVE UNTIL YOU HEAR IT FROM ME!

(please turn)

In your FREE REPORT, I will give you the exact date, time, and price when gold has been cleared for takeoff. That's when you should back up the truck and buy as much of the yellow metal as you can get your hands on.

Because my models are telling me gold could shoot up to $5,000 an ounce when the K Wave comes to America.

I'll also tell you how to own your gold.

Because some gold investments will be safer and more profitable than others. Some will be downright dangerous.

Owning shares in mining companies, for example, is a great way to leverage the rising price of gold. The last time the price of gold surged, for example, some mining stocks generated returns of up to 3,000%.

That's enough to turn $10,000 into $300,000!

But mining companies are notoriously risky stocks. And I don't want you holding the bag if some of the biggest names in the business go belly up.

That's why it's so important that you get your free copy of "STOCK MARKET TSUNAMI" right away. And here's how you can get a copy of this privately-circulated report absolutely free.

Chapter V:

The Bargain of a Lifetime

"STOCK MARKET TSUNAMI" is yours — free — when you accept a risk-free subscription to my monthly bulletin Real Wealth Report.

You see, my book and my monthly bulletin go hand in hand. Because the K Wave is a moving target.

In your free copy of "STOCK MARKET TSUNAMI", I'll lay out the basics for you.

I'll give you the five steps you must take now to profit from the crest of the wave and protect your profits from the crash.

But as the K Wave moves through the global economy — from Europe, to Japan, to the United States ... I need to be in constant touch with you to make sure you take full advantage (and every precaution) as these seismic shifts take place.

You need to watch for the right target prices ... Buy or sell at the right moment for maximum profit ... And set the right trailing stops for your protection.

(please turn)

The only way I can help you do that is with my monthly bulletin, Real Wealth Report. I'll also send "Flash Alerts" to your inbox when there's a change in the market that calls for immediate action on your part.

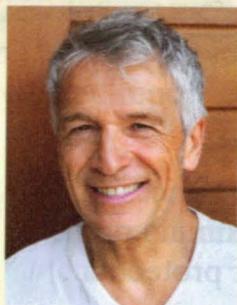

And every 90 days you'll receive a special V.I.P. INVITATION to attend my private online briefings when I meet with members to answer your questions and give you my forecasts for the coming quarter.

Plus, as a member of my inner circle, you'll receive The Edelson Wave every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. My team and I will provide our latest insights on the stock market, gold, energy, real estate and more.

One more thing ... Each issue of Real Wealth Report contains a "model portfolio" that shows you exactly what to buy, what to hold, what to sell ... and when.

Does it work? Over the past two years alone, we've doubled the S&P 500's performance.

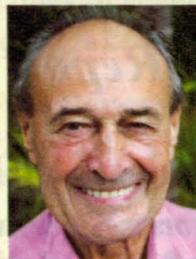

That's why members tell me:

Well worth it

"Your insight and knowledge is well worth the yearly subscription. I'm banking my entire savings on your advice. Please continue to steer me towards preserving and increasing my wealth!"

— D.S., Round Lake, IL

I like your direct style

"I like your direct, unvarnished style. Not a lot of hedging like other newsletters."

— John, Troy, MI

No wonder members would gladly pay $129 a year for this service. But you won't pay even half as much. Not even one quarter of it!

You'll get a one-year, trial subscription to Real Wealth Report for just $29 — a $100 savings off the regular rate. Plus, you'll receive your copy of "STOCK MARKET TSUNAMI" — worth $79 ... absolutely FREE!

Just call TOLL-FREE 1-800-291-8545. Or complete the FREE GIFT CERTIFICATE on page 45 and mail it in the postage-paid envelope I've provided.

Why am I making such a great offer? Because I'm throwing out a lifeline to people who are smart enough to see the K Wave tsunami ahead ... and motivated enough to protect themselves. If that sounds like you ... I also want you to have this:

A 100% money-back guarantee for 12 full months

You'll get ALL of your money back, even if you ask for a full refund on the last day of your subscription. No questions asked. And you get to keep everything you've received — with no obligation what so ever.

And here's an even better value:

Two years of Real Wealth Report for Just $39

Plus, receive three more survival guides, FREE!

Normally, two years of Real Wealth Report is $258. But for the next ten days, it's only $39. You save $291 — and in addition to receiving “STOCK MARKET TSUNAMI”, I'd like to send you THREE MORE special reports.

These three reports will help you take advantage of every phase of the coming K Wave. Because I believe you can hit THREE BIG JACKPOTS between now and when the K Wave comes ashore in America ...

Free Report #1:

“EUROPE'S FALL IS YOUR GAIN” You can hit a jackpot

when the European Union cracks apart without shorting stocks or playing the currency markets. If the stock markets in Europe plunge 60%, for example, I'll show you an inverse ETF that could turn every $10,000 you invest into $28,000.

Free Report #2:

“KAMIKAZE K Wave”

You could score another jackpot when the K Wave strikes Japan. Your free report will give you the names of several blue-chip American companies that could take off when Tokyo tanks.

Free Report #3:

“FLIGHT CAPITAL FORTUNE!” Finally, you could hit another jackpot when the K Wave starts to crest in America. As I said before, I believe the Dow will hit 31,000 within a year, nearly doubling the value of your American blue chips today.

Now, these reports, combined with your Real Wealth Report membership, will definitely get you started. But I'd like to go one step further for you.
